Introduction

The Department of Environmental Science at RKMV College undertook yearlong project on environmental cleanliness and awareness during the academic year 2023-2024. A total of 300 students actively participated in this initiative, divided into rotational groups to ensure sustained efforts across the campus and surrounding areas. This report summarizes the objectives, plan, procedure, outcomes, and conclusions of the project.

Objectives

- To promote cleanliness and environmental sustainability within the RKMV campus and surrounding areas.
- To raise awareness among students, faculty, and the community about waste segregation, recycling, and reducing single-use plastic.
- To instill a sense of environmental responsibility among students through hands-on participation.
- To improve the aesthetic and hygienic standards of the campus and its vicinity.

Plan and Procedure

Formation of Groups: The 300 students were divided into 6 groups, each consisting of 50 members.

Groups were assigned tasks on a rotational basis, ensuring consistent participation throughout the year.

Orientation and Training:

An initial orientation program was conducted to familiarize students with the project's goals and tasks during the classroom teaching by Dr Meena, Assistant Professor Environment Science. Training sessions were provided on waste segregation, composting, and sustainable practices.

Areas Covered

RKMV College campus: Classrooms, corridors, gardens, hostel premises, and canteen areas.

Surrounding areas: Nearby streets, parks, and public spaces within a 2 km radius of the college.

Implementation of Project

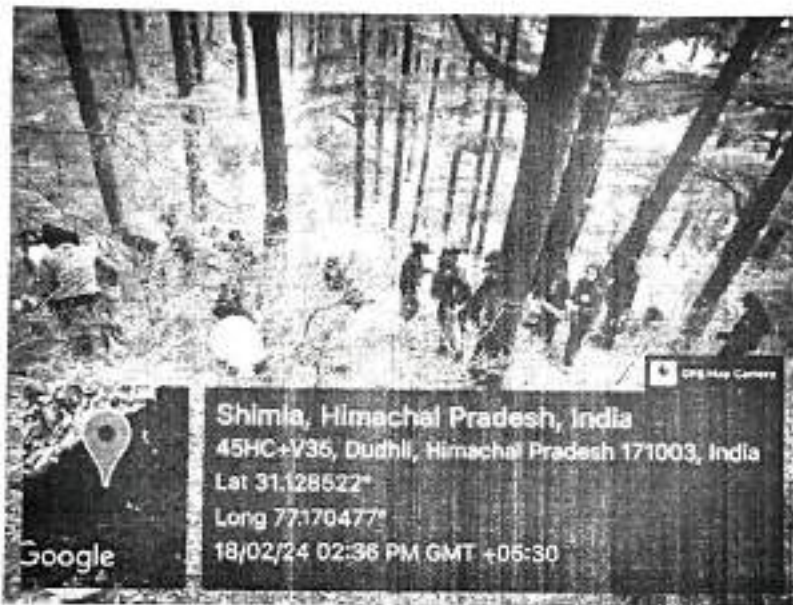

Weekly Drives: Each group participated in weekly cleanliness drives, collecting litter, segregating recyclable and biodegradable waste, and ensuring proper disposal.

Awareness Campaigns: Students organized poster-making competitions, street plays, and interactive sessions to engage the public on topics like waste management and the hazards of plastic pollution.

Composting Initiative: Biodegradable waste from the canteen and hostel messes were directed to the vermicomposting unit under the 'Green Campus:

Waste to Wealth' project.

Plastic Collection and Recycling: Collected single-use plastics were sent to the Municipal Corporation of Shimla and a Mumbai-based NGO for recycling.

Outcomes:

Improved Cleanliness:

The campus and surrounding areas observed a significant reduction in litter.

Enhanced aesthetic appeal of gardens and public spaces.

Awareness Raised:

Over 1,000 students and local residents attended awareness sessions. Increased understanding of waste segregation, recycling, and sustainable practices among the community.

Waste Management:

Approximately 250 kg of single-use plastic was collected and recycled. Composting efforts produced over 300 kg of high-quality compost used for the campus nursery

Behavioral Change:

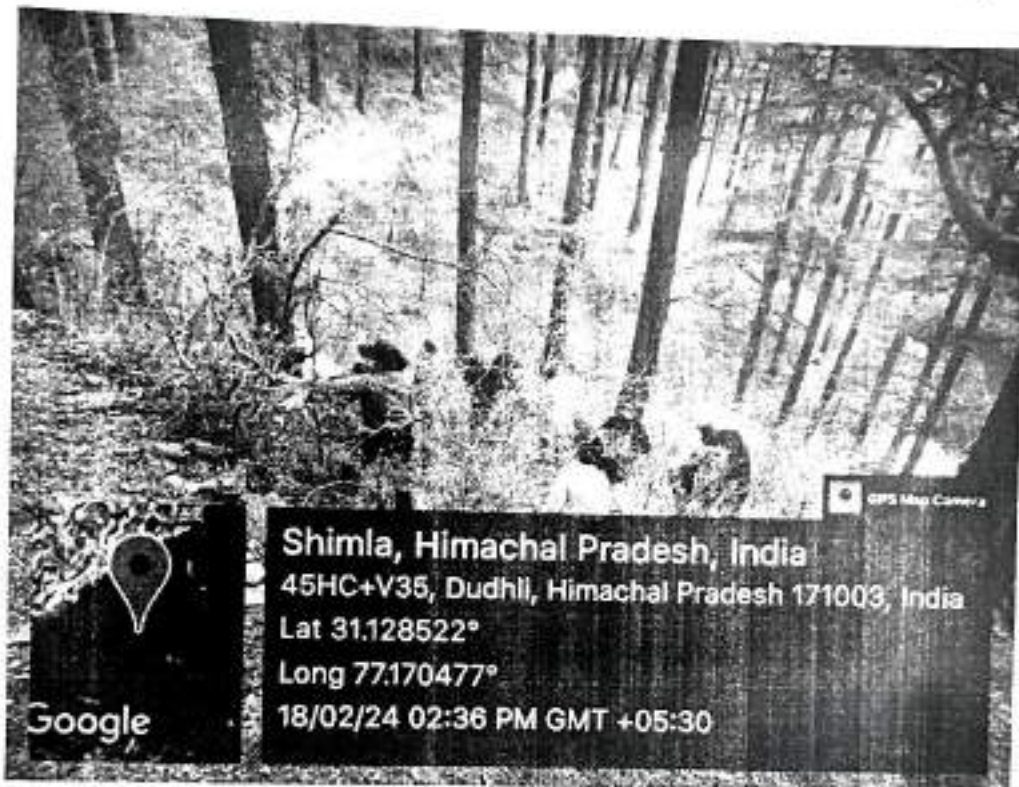

Students reported adopting environmentally friendly habits, such as avoiding single-use plastic and practicing waste segregation at home.

Conclusion

The Environmental Cleanliness and Awareness Drive was a resounding success, fulfilling its objectives of promoting environmental responsibility and sustainability. It empowered students to take an active role in addressing environmental challenges and fostered a cleaner and greener campus. The project also strengthened ties between the college and the community, setting an example for collective action toward a sustainable future.

This initiative highlights the transformative potential of education and collaboration in achieving environmental goals. The Department of Environmental Science plans to continue and expand such activities in the coming years, ensuring the legacy of environmental stewardship at RKMV College.

Introduction

The Indoor Air Plants Plantation Drive Project was initiated by the Department of Environmental Science, RKMV College, with a focus on improving indoor air quality and enhancing the aesthetic appeal of the college campus. The project aimed to instill a sense of environmental stewardship, promote closeness to nature, and underline the importance of plants in mitigating indoor air pollution. A total of 300 students participated in the project, working in rotational groups to ensure effective implementation and sustainability.

Objectives –

1. Enhance Indoor Air Quality - To reduce indoor air pollution by planting air-purifying plants.
2. Environmental Awareness - To promote love and care for nature among students and staff.
3. Beautification of Campus - To improve the aesthetics of RKMV College through plant placement.
4. Sustainability - To utilize compost from the college's vermicomposting pits for the plantation drive.

5. Skill Development - To train students in plant care, transplantation, and gardening practices.

Plan and Procedure

1. Planning Phase

- Formation of Groups - 300 students were divided into 10 groups, each comprising 30 members.
- Groups worked on a rotation basis, with each group assigned specific tasks.

2. Procurement

- Flower pots were purchased for planting.
- Soil and vermi-compost were sourced from the college composting pits.

3. Selection of Plants

- Indoor air-purifying plants such as Areca Palm, Snake Plant, Peace Lily, Aloe Vera, and Spider Plant were selected based on their ability to improve indoor air quality.

Implementation Phase

- 1. Transplantation - The selected plants were carefully transplanted into pots using a mix of soil and vermi-compost.

Groups ensured the proper placement of plants in suitable conditions for growth.

- 2. Care and Maintenance - Each group cared for the plants over a month, ensuring regular watering, pruning, and monitoring.

- 3. Placement and Display - Once plants were acclimatized, they were strategically mounted across the college campus, including hallways, offices, and classrooms.

Each plant was accompanied by a small placard with messages promoting love for nature and environmental conservation.

- 4. Awareness Creation - Awareness campaigns were organized to educate the campus community about the benefits of indoor air-purifying plants.

Outcomes -

- 1. Number of Plants Transplanted : Over 150 pots with indoor air-purifying plants were successfully transplanted and displayed across the RKMV campus.
- 2. Aesthetic Enhancement : The placement of plants significantly improved the aesthetic appeal of classrooms, corridors, and common areas.
- 3. Improved Air Quality : The presence of air-purifying plants contributed to healthier indoor environments, reducing air pollutants like carbon dioxide and volatile organic compounds (VOCs).
- 4. Environmental Awareness : Students and staff became more conscious of the importance of plants for a sustainable and healthy environment.
- 5. Utilization of Resources : Vermi-compost from the college composting pits was effectively utilized, promoting a sustainable waste management cycle.

Environmental Concerns Addressed

1. Indoor Air Pollution : The project addressed the rising concern of indoor air pollution, which can adversely affect health and productivity.

2. Carbon Footprint Reduction : By promoting the use of plants, the initiative contributed to a reduction in the campus's carbon footprint.
3. Waste Management : The project integrated composting with plantation, ensuring the efficient use of biodegradable waste generated on campus.
4. Connection to Nature : The drive emphasized the psychological benefits of greenery, fostering a sense of calmness and well-being among the campus community.

Conclusion

The Indoor Air Plants Plantation Drive Project was a significant step towards promoting environmental sustainability and creating a healthier, greener campus. The active participation of 300 students not only ensured the success of the project but also instilled a deep sense of responsibility and love for nature. The project highlighted the role of plants in enhancing air quality, managing waste sustainably, and beautifying spaces.

The initiative stands as a testament to the collective efforts of the RKMV College community in addressing environmental concerns and fostering a culture of sustainability. "Invitation letter from Language and Cultural Department"

About Kathak:

Kathak is an Indian classical dance known for its complex rhythmic patterns and intricate footwork. Kathak dancers control around 100 ankle bells to articulate their movements, which are based on life, stylized, and add complex rhythmic patterns.

Kathak is performed by both men and women, and many dances convey moods of love. There are three traditions of Kathak, the Banaras, Lucknow, and Jaipur Gharanas, which are inspired by the cities in which they flourished. The Jaipur Gharana focuses more on foot movements, while the Banaras and Lucknow Gharanas focus more on graceful hand movements and facial expressions. Kathak dancers tell stories through their body movements, flexibility, facial expressions, hand movements, and extensive footwork. The stories in Kathak's performance generally tend to be about Krishna (or in some cases Shiva or Devi and Rama), and the stories come from sources such as the Bhagavata Purana, or the Indian Epics.

About Mangala Bhatt:

Mangala Bhatt, is a popular figure in the field of Kathak, in Hyderabad and Delhi, and across the globe wherever her students are settled or she herself has performed. As a youngster, Mangala enrolled at Kathak Kendra New Delhi, and began learning Kathak under late Shri Kundanlal Gungani of Jaipur Gharana. She later took advanced training under Kathak Maestro late Pandit Durga Lal ji from whom she absorbed his brilliant technique and mastered the dazzling cadence and subtle nuances of Kathak.

About Raghav Raj Bhatt:

Raghav Raj Bhatt is a famous Kathak dancer, folk and tribal arts expert, and sketch artist from Hyderabad. He is the primary student of Padma Vibhushan Pt Birju Maharaj Ji.
